STAGE BAND

THE B.I.S.S. BAND

• Peter meet the wolf in Dixieland

To adapt " Peter and the wolf " of Prokofiev in jazz is not a new idea but a good idea. The Bi.$Band keeps the themes of Prokofiev, and new arrangements for this version. The Show begins with the short history of the jazz then, as in the original one , it gets involved at the presentation of the characters each represented by an instrument of the orchestra with its leitmotiv: the bird by the clarinet, the grandfather by the trombone, the duck by the banjo, the cat by the saxophone tenor, the wolf by the double bass, hunters by the rhythm section and Peter by the trumpet. Every presentation gives rise to musical passages among which some swing with a real happiness. The tale itself is then told with some variations, not divested of humor, matched by its musical illustrations which reveal the skills of the arrangements executed with flexibility and control. During the representations of the opera (work) of Prokofiev, the classic orchestras call on, generally, to renowned comedians. The Bi.$Band found in the person of his frontman a particularly endowed and convincing narrator. In this musical tale, the protagonists are personified by instruments ... refined and suggestive, this adaptation of Prokofiev you will travel in Louisiana and all world music. Smaller as the biggest discover the instruments of jazz and improvisation in a fun and original way. As in the cabarets of New Orleans, the young public will dance to jazz, to comment on listening to the soloists, snap your fingers, clap finally so to speak, share this light and lively experience with musicians! This the show (entertainment) is the echo, deserves to pass in all the ears and in front of all the eyes.

• Opera in dixie

Devoted to the relationship between jazz and European music, the famous repertoire of Dixieland's executive practice is reinterpreted, paraphrasing with some imaginative and sometimes irreverent work of interpretation and arrangement, some of the most famous works of the greatest composers. From Bizet's "Carmen" to Rossini's "Thief's Thief", from Beethoven's "Hymn to Joy" to Vivaldi's "Spring", from Bach's "Minuetto in sol" to "Golliwogg's Cake Walk" by Debussy. The atmospheres of New Orleans and Chicago Style, Charleston and Ragtime are philologically respected in the timbre and in the spirit (also because of the use of some original instruments of the era) but the sound is still filtered through the musical experiences. More modern than the individual members of the band who, by merging on the various plans of execution, from arrangement to improvisation, avoid a revivalist result, enhancing the will to make it clear how this musical genre is not aged more than Swing or Bebop.

• Ops. opera

Ops. Opera is a theatrical performance between melodrama and clownics dedicated to Opera Lyrica with little acrobatic moments and juggling. A reflection on the small companies of tourists and tour guides who landed the moon, bringing to the small centers the most famous opera tunes to those who could not in any case be able to hear them at the theater. It will be a comic show, rich in burlesque and amazing looks inspired by the music of Mozart, Donizetti, Rossini and Verdi.

The Bi.S.S. band will propose its Dixieland and Hot Jazz repertoire with swing and charleston incursions, engaging audiences with the exuberance of their visual impact and the traction of their unmistakable sound, which surprises and drags the whole audience unrepeatably today as A hundred years ago.

THE B.I.S.S. BAND

THE B.I.S.S. BAND
BITONTO SHOW&STREET BAND

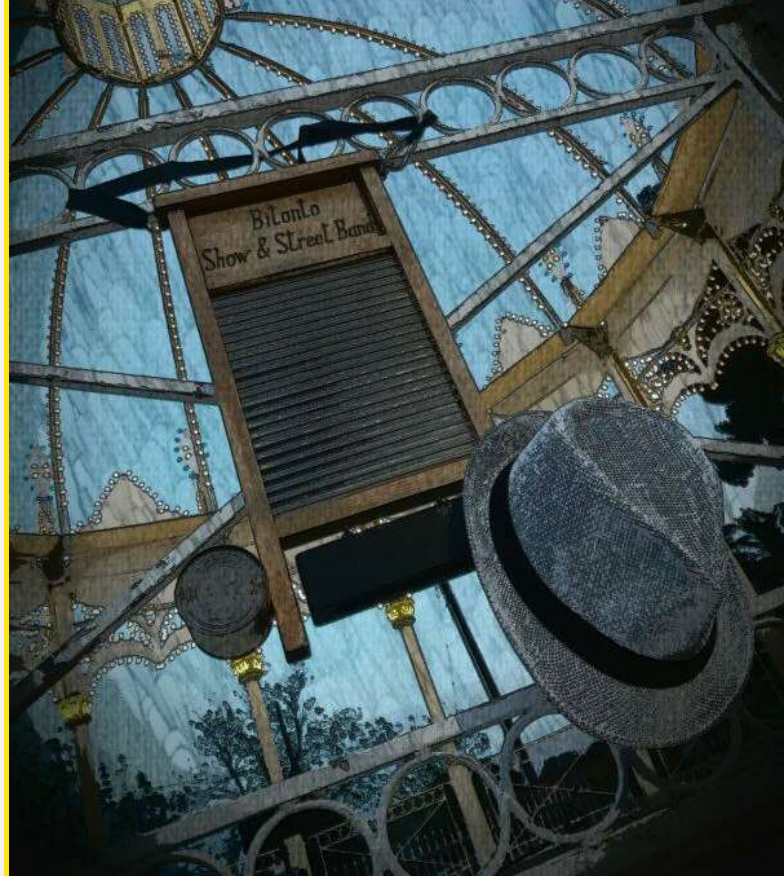

Their overflowing energy explodes on all sides and imposes on the spectator a continuous movement of the neck. The speech addresses the knees of the heart and the thighs of the soul. Stir your brain.

In the street, on stage, the Bi.S.S. Band depict their musical universe through "brass band" arrangements that make us rediscover the music we thought we knew. The percussive trance is lifted by the power of compact and saturated brass. The voice, melodic and feminine, perfect this painting of its palette of varied colors through the raging megaphone.

"The Band: it's only wind, but that always blows in the right direction and never fails!"
