

Lenny Pojarov

was born in Kyrgyzstan. Her family knew, from the moment she started singing before even speaking, that they were raising a future music star.

The energetic and multitalented Lenny began her formal training in classical piano at the tender age of six. She quickly added guitar and ballet lessons to her ambitious schedule. As soon as she arrived to her new home in Germany she started her vocal studies. The school choir offered her the opportunity to try different music genres such as musical, swing, and Gospel before she took her first steps as a professional pop singer.

The road to success is long and hard but so far it has already led her to the hippest clubs in Paris, London, Ibiza, and the most exclusive hotels in Shanghai and Monaco. Performing in the Olympic Stadium in Berlin and participating in big TV-productions such as X Factor and Come Dine With Me have already been vantage points along her path.

Lenny presents her very own neo-soul-poppy sound wherever she can and is a true eye catcher attracting everybody's attention not only through her music. Her sparkling eyes, the curly mane, her super body with these incredibly long legs ensure that her audience is left with a musical as well as a visual impression. Therefore, it is no surprise that her listeners are comparing her to big music stars like Alicia Keys and Christina Aguilera.

She is continuously working on herself and her music with a great dedication. Lenny has even bigger ambitions and believes in herself working relentlessly hard to improve her skills as a singer, songwriter, pianist and entertainer. Her songs reflect this enormous passion for music. Each composition is an intoxicating firework of emotions and as versatile as Lenny herself. No matter whether you are in need for a gentle tune or a happy, catchy song to sing along and dance to, she has the perfect song for every mood. This diversity is also revealed in her debut EP "DRAMA 2.0", (January 2014), The Color Festival tour-anthem "When I See You" (July 2015) as well as her brand new single "Phoenix" (November 2016).

Lenny has already taken the first step and you can be curious to experience what the future will bring. One thing is for sure though; she won't give up until her music is heard all around the world .
